

Latin Verbs: The First Conjugation, All Persons

Every such line as this x loves amat x is loved amâtur represents only one of six possible options for that mood and tense:

I love	amô	amor	I am loved you love	amâs	amâris / amâre	you are loved x loves	amat	amâtur	x is loved we love	amâmus	amâmur	we are loved you (pl) love	amâtis	amâminî	you (pl) are loved they love	amant	amantur	they are loved

There are three persons possible and two "numbers" (singular / plural). The main difference from what you have learned is that instead of the final -t (representing he / she / it), you will have to be able to insert the proper active or passive personal ending. (Review the handout on personal endings.) Study the changes that the typical verb will take in each mood and tense, and practice writing out the paradigm with other verbs from this conjugation. In bold are certain forms that show slight differences from what you might expect.

I was loving	amâbam	amâbar	I was being loved you were loving	amâbâs	amâbâris / amâbâre	you were being loved x was loving	amabat	amâbâtur	x was being loved we were loving	amâbâmus	amâbâmur	we were being loved you (pl) were loving	amâbâtis	amâbâminî	you (pl) were being loved they were loving	amâbant	amabântur	they were being loved I will love	amâbô	amâbor	I will be loved you will love	amâbis	amâberis / amâbere	you will be loved x will love	amâbit	amâbitur	x will be loved we will love	amâbimus	amâbimur	we will be loved you (pl) will love	amâbitis	amâbiminî	you (pl) will be loved they will love	amâbunt	amabuntur	they will be loved

In the perfects we see in the active the special personal endings that only appear here, although all but two have easily recognizable endings: -î, -istî, -it, -imus, -istis, -êrunt.

I have loved	amâvî	amâtus sum	I have been loved you have loved	amâvistî	amâtus es	you have been loved x has loved	amâvit	amâtus est	x has been loved
